

PHILLIP GRANBERRY

Adjunct Professor, General Education Department
NECB Faculty Member since 2009

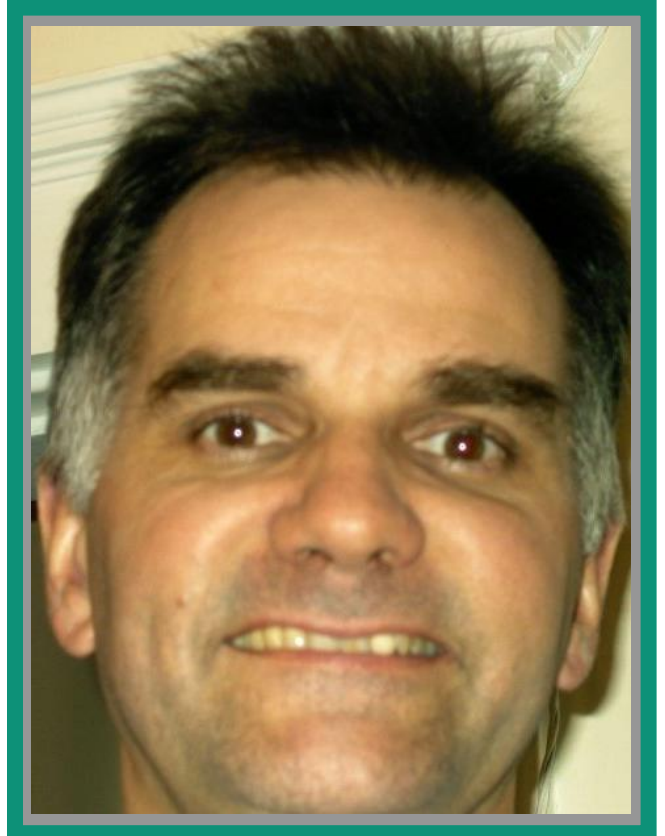

Education

Ph.D. in Public Policy
University of Massachusetts Boston, 2007

M.A. in Theology and a M.T.S. in Pastoral Studies
St. Meinrad School of Theology

NECB Courses Taught

Organizational Behavior
Business Ethics

Notes

Phillip Granberry is a social demographer who specializes in unauthorized immigration. He has worked with various community-based organizations assisting recently arrived U.S. immigrants. He has also done research in "The Formation and Effects of Social Capital among Mexican Immigrants" examining how unauthorized Mexican immigrants accumulate social capital in the United States, and how it helps explain both their economic and health outcomes.

Professor Granberry currently is working on research with newly collected data from Brazilian and Dominican immigrants in the Metropolitan Boston area. He has published several articles on demographic and economic trends among Latinos in New England and the impact of welfare and immigration policy reform on Latinos in Massachusetts. Professor Granberry's interest in community development springs from his previous academic experience studying theology.